Cost-Sharing Approach To Project Aquarius Favored

Monterey Peninsula Unified School District trustees have gone on record as favoring a cooperative approach to dealing with drug abuse and drug-related problems on the Peninsula.

The board adopted a resolution of intent to join with other school districts and municipalities in funding Project Aquarius next year.

Project Aquarius is facing financial troubles because of a cutback in support from the California Council on Criminal Justice. That agency has indicated it will provide only $51,000 or less than half the amount requested by Aquarius staff members and the project's advisory board. That amount will keep the project alive only until next November. While several other funding sources are being probed, the advisory board is seeking approval from local school districts and cities of a joint powers concept under which funding would be shared.

Allan J. Petersdorf, Monterey school superintendent, told school trustees that a recent evaluation of Project Aquarius by the California Council on Criminal Justice with a team from the University of California at Santa Cruz was positive in nature. Petersdorf has maintained that cities and other agencies throughout the Peninsula should share the cost of Project Aquarius, due to the community-wide nature of the drug problem.

Trustee Rev. Thomas Knauf voted against the resolution, saying he did not fully agree with the project's evaluation. He did not elaborate, however, on his areas of disagreement.

In another matter related to finances, trustees received an addendum to the 1972-73 salary proposal made by district teacher representatives. Maryann Kane, chairman of the salary commettee of the Cerificated Employees Council, submitted a proposal requesting adjustments in payment for extra duties performed by teachers, as well as requests for pay hikes for adult, home and driver education instructors. The teachers' pay proposal package revolves around a requested 6.5 percent pay increase.

The board decided to write a letter in opposition to a new bill introduced by Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, dealing with unused school sites. A Greene-sponsored measure passed the legislature last year which forces school districts to pay property taxes to other public agencies on school sites not used within a specified period of time. Monterey Peninsula Unified School District trustees opposed that bill as being discriminatory and unconstitutional.

Greene's new bill would give power to the State Allocation Board to direct the sale of unused sites. At their meeting, Monterey school trustees declared the new bill would errode local control in the case of districts -- like Monterey -- that had bought school land with local money. Although local money was used, the proposed legislation would put disposal of the unused sites in the hands of the State Allocation Board, trustees feared. In the case of districts that bought their land under a state aid program, the allocation board had jurisdiction over the purchases.

The board is supporting a bill by Assemblyman Robert Wood, R-Greenfield, that would wipe out entirely the requirement that school districts pay taxes on unused sites.

Communication Gap Is Narrowed In Seaside and Marina

Communication between school, home and community has been markedly improved as a result of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District's Community Counseling Services, district trustees were told at their recent meeting.

Mrs. Marion Woodie, who heads a staff of seven community counselor aides working in Seaside and Marina schools, reported that the program is helping overcome barriers between the school and the home in those communities.

The community counselor act as liaison between schools and the home, breaking down barriers, contacting community agencies and coordinating community activities, she said.

The primary goal of the three-year-old program is to "return the child to school in a favorable condition ready to learn on a regular basis."

Counselors visit homes, explaining to parents the problems their children are having in shcool or explaining why parents should visit the schools and discuss their children with teachers and principals. In turn, the counselors, from their home visits, can bring information to school that will help teachers and principals better understand students.

The counselors have made contact with over 2,300 students and over 1,100 parents in the course of their work. This summer, they will continue a summer program begun last year of meeting with parents and students in homes to help them make transitions to junior and senior high schools.

In addition, the team has been responsible for establishing, or helping to establish a number of community projects and learning activities.

Summerizing her report, Mrs. Woodie said, "Due to a lack of effective home contact, parents had viewed the 'school' as a threatening structure over which they had little influence, thus seeing themselves and their children as victims of the educational system. As a result, parents did not understand their children's educational programs, nor did they have a clear perception of the reasons their children seemed to be victimized by consequences of rule violations.

"The community counselor program has effectively reduced the communication gap between schools and parents, especially in the Seaside area. School personnel and parental reactions have been characterized by strong acceptance and approval," she stated.

Trustees also heard a progress report on the Covell Appraisal Project, designed to improve teacher effectiveness and student reading in grades one and two at Covell School.

The project involves use of video-tape equipment. Teachers volunteer to have their classroom teaching video-taped and then later view the tape to appraise their effectiveness.

Covell teachers told the board the project has been successful in helping them improve their teaching abilities.

Summer Adult Program Approved

An eight-week summer school session for adults has been approved by Monterey Peninsula Unified School District trustees.

The summer session will run from Juen 19 to August 11.

Most classes will be held at Monterey High School, although Trustee Dr. Robert Black asked administrators to look into the possibility of expanding the classes to Seaside High School. Seaside High is more centrally located, he said. In addition, holding classes there would reduce transportation problems of Seaside residents, he said.

Classes scheduled at Monterey High will be offered in the evening and include high school English; U.S. history; civics; typing; English as a second languate; typing for the blind; sign and finger language for the deaf and physical fitness for women.

Seaside High will offer a daytime nurse's aide and orderly training program.

Advance chorus will be offered at Fremont Junior High and conversational Spanish will be given at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center.

In addition, the Monterey Adult School will offer a driver training class at Fort Ord's Army Community Service Center.

SES Needs Jobs For Students

The Student Employment Service Program of the Monterey Peninsula reports that 868 local students took time off during their Easter vacation to register for summer employment or reactivate their application. This makes them currently available for after school and week-end work.

Of the total students registered, 411 were boys and 457 girls. This was an increase from last year when the Easter registration was 725.

Of the total 559 students registered were from Seaside, Marina and Fort Ord. Of these 187 are disadvantaged and meet the economic criteria.

There was a noticeable increase in the number of local university and college students registering for summer jobs who were home for the holiday.

Volunteer members of the American Association of Retired Persons contributed 146 hours of their time in helping provide service to students.

Miss Howard, Executive Director of the Student Service reports, "We have the students, now we need the help and cooperation of the employers in the communities in this area to provide jobs. The SES Committee members and I feel its good business to hire local students because money earned locally is spent locally."

Camacho Accuses NLRB Of Discrimination

Democratic Congressional Candidate Julian Camacho recently accused the National Labor Relations Board of using discriminatory practices to "punish" the United Farm Workers without giving them equal protections enjoyed by other unions under federal law.

"For 37 years growers have tried to keep farm workers from organizing by excluding then from the protection of the National Labor Relations Act of 1935," said Camacho. "Now that farm workers are building their union and trying to earn a fair day's wages for a fair day's work, the Republicans want to make use of the punitivd provisions of the NLRA to destroy the union."

NLRB General Counsel Peter Nash, a Nixon appointee, went to Federal Court in March to get an injunction against the farm workers' non-violent grape boycott.

Camacho also accused the NLRB of first ignoring the workers' requests for union elections, then trying to bring about the elections at times when a majority of seasonal farm workers were not present to vote."

"It's all so unfair," said Camacho.

All previous NLRB decisions have made it clear that fram workers cannot be restricted by the NLRB law that does not cover or protect them.

"The NLRB is supposed to be neutral, yet they are the ones initiating the suit. This action clearly reflects the wishes of the Nixon Administration which appointed a majority of the members of the current board."

"It is an effort to gain large corporate growers' support in an election year," he added.

"And we all know where Congressman Talcott's symphthies lie," said Camacho. "At a time two years ago when the law firm he was formerly associated with represented many of the largest growers in this area, Talcott introduced legislation to prevent the farm workers from striking for better wages and working conditions."

"Our own representative and our own president have worked hand-in-hand to prevent this segment of labor from becoming an integral part of this society and has tried to force them into a permanent second class citizenship."

"Much has been done to malign farm workers," said Camacho, who outlined a three-point program as a first phase of a plan to help the farm workers achieve a more equitable economic status in their community. The three parts are:

*Unemployment insurance should be extended to the farm workers, "The same as any other American workers who are an integral part of the economic community."

*The minimum wage should be raised from the present $1.65 an hour to $2.20 an hour as recommended by the president's pay board for Wage and Price control. This is based on the Bureau of Labor Statistics" low adequate budget which is $6,960 a year for an urban family of four.

*Once the above two steps are carried out we will be able to enforce the child labor laws to insure the youngsters of farm worker families are protected and get a full-time, quality education. "As it stands now, the kids are forced by the system to work in the fields because their parents' wages are so low and they don't have the protection of unemployment insurance," said Camacho, who pointed out that the average life span of a farm worker is only 49 years and that 25 percent of all the farm workers are under 16 years old.

Camacho also noted that the State Grange supported unemployment insurance Legislation for farmworkers in Sacramento, but Governor Reagon voted the bill which passed bothe houses.

Principals Are Named

Monterey Peninsula Unified School District Trustees have named 1972 summer school administrators.

Principal at Monterey High School for the first four-week session will be Wayne Downey. James Anderson will take over the job for the second-ary school's second month-long session. At Seaside High, Robert Hanson will head the summer program during the first session, follwed by Ernie Piper.

Anderson will be the summer counselor at Monterey High during the first session. James Pritchert will fill the counselor's job at Seaside High.

Elementary summer principals include: George Hall, Monte Vista; Amy Jones, La Mesa; Rodger Curtice, Del Rey Woods; James Mitchell, Highland; John Martin, Ord Terrace; James Olivas, Stilwell and Gene Tolhurst, Marina Vista. Jean Archambault will serve as head teacher at Crumpton School's primary grade summer program.

At the recent school board meeting, President Mary Lou Stutzman administered the oath of office to Ted Cunningham of Seaside, elected to the board in a special election March 14. Cunningham will serve the remainder of the term vacated in November by George Gividen, who resigned from the board.

Meeting For Library Supporters

Persons interested in supporting a Seaside library drive and helping in an "International Community Fair" at Seaside High School, April 29, have been invited to an organizational meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in the Monterey High School cafeteria.

Alex Brumbaugh, Monterey High administrator who is coordinating the fair as a means of building support for a new community library, said inresentatives concerned with the library issue are invited to the meeting.

KOCN Will Cover New Moonshot

KOCN (FM-105), Pacific Grove's stereo station, will broadcast hourly reports on the Apollo 16 moonshot direct from Cape Kennedy via the new United Press International radio network.

Starting with the liftoff at 9:50 a.m. this Sunday, April 16 and running through the expected splasdown April 28, the reports will be aired at five minutes before the hour from 5:55 a.m. to 7:55 p.m. daily. In the interim, special moonshot programs will also be issued as they occur.

In announcing the broadcast schedule, Jack Tobin, new owner-operator of KOCN, pointed out that "naturally, our programming will be subject to such changes as hapen in the moonshot schedule, particularly at liftoff time."

KOCN, whose transmitter is in Seaside, is the first Monterey Peninsula station to make the UPI hookup, he added. The moonshot coverage typifies many special programs which will be offered through this service.

(By Clint Porter during the absence of Andy Barragan)

"She may be weary, women do get weary wearing the same shabby dress. And when she's weary, try a little tenderness. You know she's waiting, just anticipating things she may never possess. While she's without them, try a little tenderness.

"It's not just sentimental, she has her grief and care. And a voice that's soft and gentle, makes it easier to bear.

"You won't regret it, women don't forget it, love is their whole happiness. It's all so easy, try a little tenderness."

By now (or before) everyone is aware that those are the words of a song written in 1932 and revised a few years ago by the late Otis Redding. Most people like music. A certain percentage of them actually listen to the words. A very small percentage of them really dig deeper to try to feel how the writer of the words must have been feeling at the time. "Try a Little Tenderness." The title alone expresses much: When all else fails, "Try a Little Tenderness." Of course if the tenderness had been applied at the beginning, the anxiety or hardship or whatever unhappiness existed, may have been avoided.

Anyway, if you evoke unhappiness upon another, you are going to have to account for it sooner or later, so try a little tenderness each

Group Wants EOP Funding To Continue

The state Advisory Committee for Educational Opportunity Programs and Services has expressed concern over the leved of funding for such programs, according to Sherman Smith of Seaside, a member of the committee and a member of the Monterey Peninsula College Board of Trustees.

Teh committee has sent a strongly worded resolution to the California Community College Board of Governors recommending that EOP funds be continued at the present level, said Smith.

The advisory committee met recently with the state community college Chancellor's Office to discuss funding for 1972-73. The committee presented its recommendations for membership on subcommittees to consider allocation of funds.

Educational Opportunity Programs are aimed at helping disadvantaged students. Financial aid, tutoring, peer counseling and job placement are examples of programs at MPC which are supported through EOP funds.

According to Smith, the advisory committee was concerned about reports that EOP funds would be cut back from the $3.35 million spent during this fiscal year. He said the committee wants the Board of Governors to take a strong stand on the funding for these programs in the state's 92 community colleges.

Officially, the Women's Army Corps, as it stands today came into being during World War II. It was in 1942, at the height of the war effort, when all available men were called for combat. Thousands of noncombatant jobs had to be filled to keep the vast Army machine moving. An emergency measure was passed-and the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps (WAAC) was formed. Thousands of women volunteered to meet the challenge, holding vital positions alongside the Nation's servicemen both overseas and in the States. Their achievements were so outstanding that in 1943 a Congressional bill removed the "auxiliary" from their name-making them a vital part of the wartime Army. After the war, in 1948, Congress made the Women's Army Corps a permanent part of our Country's military. Today, women are an integral part of the Army, performing many necessary jobs women do so well. Interesting, right women?

Remember if you qualify you can be a part of the Women's Army Corps.

Bus Drivers Applauded

School bus drivers got a collective pat on the back from Monterey Peninsula Unified School District trustees recently.

Noting that April 17-24 is "School Bus Safety Week" throughout the nation, board me embers commended district drivers for the record they maintained during the last school year.

District records show that the fleet of school buses traveled over 417,000 miles, carrying an average one-way load of nearly 2,900 pupils daily. During the year, district buses were involved in only four accidents, none of which were the fault of the bus drivers.

Total damage to buses from the four accidents amounted to less than $30.

Camp Is Cancelled

All sessions of Girl Scout Established Camp Cawatre, summer of 1972, have been cancelled due to the abnormally dry year resulting in predicted water shortage and intensified fire hazard.

The Board of Directors of the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council took this action at their recent meeting in Monterey, upon recommendation of the Camp Committee.

Though regular camp has been cancelled, plans are already confirmed for using the camp for troop and family camping. The site will be open and available every week this spring and every day from June 9 through June 25. A minumum staff will be on the site during this time.

A co-ed back pack trip, with base camp at Cawatre, will be held June 20 through June 29. Corky and Graham Mathews, Sierra Club members with extensive experience in back-packing in the Los Padres National Forest, will be leaders for this event. Part of the program will include a day long trip down the Arroyo Seco Gorge. This trip is open to teen-aged boys and girls. Further information is available form the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council office, P.O. Box 1244, Monterey.

Other action taken at the Board meeting and involving camp was approval to make the camp site available to non-Scout groups. A rate schedule to cover costs was established and groups will be allowed to use the site when it is not being occupied by Girl Scouts. The availability of the site will be limited this year due to the water shortage, but any groups interested now or in the future are encouraged to call or write for details.

Estimate For 1972 Also Due

If your total estimated income tax and self-employment tax for 1972 exceeds your income tax withholding by $100 or more, you should file a declaration of extimated tax, according to R. F. Harless, district director of the Internal Revenue Service for Northern California.

Complete instructions on how to file may be found on Form 1040,ES, which was sent to everyone who filed a declaration last year and also to others who, according to IRS records, are probably required to make a declaration.

Estimates for 1972 are due by Monday, April 17, the same date as 1971 federal income tax returns. A copy of the 1040-ES form is available at any IRS office.

and every time you are in contact with a situation requiring tact. If you are a believer of karma you must realize that eventually it all comes back to you.

Karma means action or activity. The Being is absolute existence. Karma can not ever reach the state of Being because one has to keep on moving in activity. Activity is the eternal cycle of birth and death, creation, evolution and dissolution. The value of the Being has to be harmonized with the value of the field of activity. If you light a candle in the bright sunlight, the candle loses its relative significance. Similarly, in the eternal light of the absolute bliss, the joys of life lose their attraction.

To rectify this, one has to bring the activity to the absolute nil and act from there. Like drawing the arrow back on the bow before you wish to shoot. The skill is in pulling the arrow back as far as possible until it reaches the "state of no activity." Then the arrow can be shot by just releasing the catch. The action is in pulling the arrow back and releasing it. It will shoot ahead with the maximum force.

So you see you can control your karma. Just because the nature of the karma and the nature of the Being are incompatible, it is possible to glorify the karma by the bliss of the Being.

I have been taught not to apologize when you are right, so I will just say I had no intentions of taking off in that direction.

For those who missed the Pearl Carey Day at Monterey County Fairgrounds Saturday, you missed some of the best Bar-B-Qued Chicken you ever put in your mouth. There were a few of the youngsters there who almost made themselves sick. The taste wouldn't quit. I am pretty sure at least one of them were saying "I can't believe I ate the whole thing."

On the Island of Pala (Aldous Huxley's 'Island'), they have a unique way of saying Grace before they eat: Their Grace is the first mouthful of food of each course - chewed and chewed until there's nothing left of it. And all the time you're chewing you pay attention to the flavor of the food, its consistency and temperature, the pressures on your teeth and the feel of the muscles of your jaws. You give no thanks to God or whoever it may be. That would distract your attention. Attention to the experience of something given, something you haven't invented, not the memory of a form of words addressed to somebody in your imagination. That is called paying attention to the "not-you." The point is that when you learn to pay closer attention to more of the not-you in the environment (the food) and more of the not-you in your own organism (your taste sensations), you may find yourself paying attention to the not-you on the further side of consciousness. That's where it all is. Once you have reached the point where you are on the other side of consciousness you are in a position to guide or govern your daily activities to such a point where you will automatically do or say the right thing. Also there will be a sort of awareness at all times in your actions, and relations to other people. In fact, you will feel better.

On local thoughts: Seaside now has a new Mayor and a few new faces in the City Council. There are some who liked things as they were and some who said Seaside needs a change. Let's hope that the new faces will be able to satisfy both sides. They know and we know what was promised. We know and they also know how many times promises have been broken. Let's all hope that this time the promises were for real. Time alone can tell. Let's give them a fair chance.

To the many concerned people who have taken the time to ask: Andy Barragan, my boss, is steadily improving. He loves his fresh air outings as much as we do and we're sure that those outings are contributing greatly towards his recovery. I still burn candles. Not just for Andy, but for everyone who is under the weather. I know one of my candles kept Irene warm when she was down with her cold. I also burn candles for those who used their supply and did not have a chance to replenish.

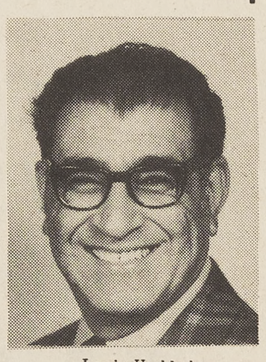
Mayor Haddad Reports



Louis Haddad

The county has been giving the cities the shaft for quite some time.

I say this because I have a copy of the county budget and, as I review it, I see that the city taxpayers are paying for county services not rendered to the cities.

For example, the sheriff's department is a policing agency whose jurisdiction encompasses only the county, yet their budget is included in the county general fund. The revenues into the general fund result not only from sales and room tax, but also the property tax, which amounts to $1.11 per hundred dollars of assessed valuation.

The sheriff's department is understaffed, underpaid but extremely effective. Sheriff Jack Davenport runs a tight ship and does an extremely admirable job with the funds and personnel which he receives from the Board of Supervisors. His staff and deputies are extremely competent. Nevertheless, the meager budget is still $1.8 million, which amounts to 30 cents on the tax rate.

I contend that the county area which is serviced by the department should pay the cost of these services. The tax rate assessed by the county in the city areas should reflect a 30 cent decrease in the next fiscal year and I'm speaking to only one area where inequities appear.

The City of Monterey adopted a resolution recommending to the Board of Supervisors that a more equitable tax rate be assessed city areas. Seaside followed suit at our last Council meeting.

I realize that the State law provides that the County is responsible for policing the city areas and that the cities only have police departments in order to provide the residents with augmented police protection. But fairly speaking, the above applies.

As I See It

By Mel Vercoe

The very valid objections of many people to the idea of exporting materials to countries that may in turn make these materials or finished products available to America's military enemies are well known. Sophisticated electronic equipment being used as guidance for North Vietnamese surface to air missiles may very well contain components made in America. On the other hand, there are materials used in our manufacturing processes that have to come from countries that may not agree with us politically.

Shutting down all trade that might somehow affect us adversely might cost us too much financially, so the decision has to take the good old almighty dollar into account at each turn. An interesting example of this may be found today in the fighting in Vietnam. Our air support for the South Vietnamese is all-out except for a region that is practically one hundred percent rubber plantation, which is significant because rubber trees are valuable and very easily damaged by air strikes.

As for strategic materials, we may soon have our problems solved. The same inflation that is pricing us out of world trade in other products is running our specialty metals industry out of business. These are the materials that are vitally necessary to the manufacture of jet engines, rockets and weapons systems. Instead of selling these products to other countries, we are now going to be importing them, just as we import rather than export a host of other items.

Meanwhile, back on the ranch, we are cheered by the triumph of justice in the city of Perth, Australia. A millionaire died six years ago and left his wife six dollars a week. A judge has now decided that the wife, who is now 82 years of age, should have more money to live on, so he has awarded her a lump sum of $10,000 plus a weekly income of 45 dollars. The news item did not explain how she lived in six years on six dollars a week.

And from Denver, Colorado, comes another interesting item. A man who admitted he had sexually molested perhaps 500 little girls was castrated at his own request, and he says he hasn't molested anyone since. We can't help but wonder if this wouldn't be an excellent way to stop about 99 percent of the sex crimes taking place in America. Make castration mandatory for the first offense.

Your Supervisor Reports

Loren E. Smith

"I CHALLENGE THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS TO TAKE IMMEDIATE ACTION." These were the words used by an attorney from Monterey as he openly critized the Boards action in the handling of funding of our CHILD CARE SERVICES PROGRAM.

He is either uninformed or attempting to use this vital program as a "POLITICAL FOOTBALL." The proper solution of the problems involved are far too important to many people in our area to allow a misunderstanding of the matter to develop due to erroneous statements or half truths-whether they be made thru lack of knowledge or for other reasons.

MONTEREY COUNTY has been a LEADER IN CALIFORNIA in this important CHILD CARE SERVICE PROGRAM which was started three years ago and has had significant success.

The recent California Senate Bill #796 and the "TALMAGE AMENDMENT" on the Federal level have resulted in making additional funding available for Child care services. The Legislation is complex and many portions still remain unclear. After several conferences between our County Welfare Director and State officials, the Board of Supervisors now believe that a sufficient basis of agreement has been reached so that a plan has now been submitted with an excellent probability of being approved for funding in a total amount of $157,000. This is in addition to the approximately $150,000 that was funded for this purpose in 1970-71 "CHILD CARE SERVICES" in MONTEREY COUNTY. In 1972 our total funding (Federal, State and Local) should exceed $300,000 and will double the number of children to be cared for.

It is my hope that this short comment will serve to reassure those people who are vitally interested in participating in this essential program that the Monterey County Board of Supervisors is continuing to provide the BEST CHILD CARE PROGRAM WE CAN DEVISE. We believe the proposed plan meets State and Federal guidelines and no delays in funding are anticipated.

BEER TAX

Since repeal of prohibition, sales of beer in the United States have accounted for more than $23,4 Bbillion in excise taxes to the Federal government and more than $8.1 billion to the various state governments.

Letters To The Editor

Editor: Despite its beautiful location, Seaside is a drab town. The differences in usage and appearance of the land here and, for instance, along Carmel Bay are symptomatic of our atavistic socio-economic system. Yet improvements are possible.

It is infuriating that in this community, which screams for some natural beauty and parks, the Laguna Grande, Roberts Lake and beach areas are despoiled. It is disgusting that the hordes that compete for local, political offices reveal themselves to be almost to a man the adherents of the asphalt culture.

Time and again we hear about bringing light industry, apartment houses or discount stores to the few remaining acres of open space within Seaside. Only the most ruthless or moronic can have initiated such demands. What this town needs desperately is a large and pleasant park, a library and other projects that can raise the qualtiy of its life.

If the Monterey Peninsula needs more discount stores or tenement houses, go and build them on the golf links of the people who benefit from the exploitation of the land in Seaside. Perhaps there they will work the economic miracles that the lackeys of the exploiters promise us here.

yours truly,

L.M.P.T. Wijsen
Seaside

Editor: I wish to express my sincere appreciation for your cooperation during our annual Easter Week campaign to register Monterey Peninsula Students for summer jobs.

During Easter Week 868 students registered, which was an increase over last year.

The efforts of the student Employment Service will now be concentrated on the promotion of summer jobs for students.

Again, thank you for your cooperation.

SINCERELY,

PHYLLIS E. HOWARD, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
STUDENT EMPLOYMENT SERVICE COMMITTEE

Editor: Here are there, some educators favor putting books for students to study that are degrading. They are the works of cynical, fast-buck artists who pretend they are mirroring an undesireable aspect of life for "truth's sake."

Students are inexperienced, immature and easily influenced. They have much growing-up to do. Books given them in the class room filled in "juicy" detail with filthy languages and filthier vice are a terrible disservice to society. Sure there are slums, sure there are some of them who succumb to degeneracy - dissipation in sex, drugs, booze, unlawfulness, violence, every foul act. Youth can be told that there are such areas of abject poverty, that some poor dissipate (and for that matter some dissipate who are comfortably off!), but the main emphasis should be on what constructive efforts can be made to eliminate such deplorable conditions.

Does one have to dive in the mud, wallow in a garbage dump, smell every foul odor to know that there is pollution in life and we must all help eradicate it? In this overly permissive age, have some who boast of being in the educational field succumbed to some of the vices so that they think nothing of having our youth acquaint themselves with every possible aspect of its cesspools?

"We are not corrupting the youth," they shout. "Was not Socrates thus charged?" Though Socrates was condemned so, actually he tried to question the nonsense instilled by dictators in ancient Greece. Socrates was a man of principle, loved truth, believed in morality. He surely was not handing youth the filthiest, most contemptible books, under a pretense of educating them to love "truth and goodness." He never used a pig-sty as a model!

"As the tree is bent, that's how it will grow." When will some of our educators realize that, above all, their task is to raise a new generation far more decent than many are today - or were in the past? That is education, in its highest sense.

Sincerely yours,
George Herman

What Mom Looks For When Dad Buys Car

The nation's most representative moms readily agree that dad makes the final decision when it's time to buy a new car, but that the wives play a big role in framing the ground rules--with an eye to economy.

And somewhat surprisingly, the sex which stresses closet space in the home doesn't emphasize trunk space in the car.

Such were some of the findings in a recent poll of wives who were finalists in the 1971 All-American Family Search.

Entrants in the annual Search for the nation's most representative family were screened according to criteria established by the sociology department at the University of Miami. Finalist families then gathered for ten days of interviewing and testing by a blue-ribbon judging panel. The written survey of mothers on attitudes on cars was conducted by Dodge Safety Sheriff Joe Higgins.

WANT ECONOMY

Despite widely varying social, ethnic, racial, religious and educational backgrounds, the 49 finalists showed great agreement that the economic factors are prime considerations when the ladies in the family express their opinions on what kind of car the family will buy.

Purchase price economy came first for 35 of the ladies. Thirty-two also agreed they have concern over economy of operation, and 38 indicated they consider economy even to the car's resale potential.

After family agreement on those matters, the ladies agreed that dad takes over the shopping and negotiating.

The women reported average trade-in time for the family car was three years.

Because participation in the "Search" is limited to families with at least one unmarried child at home, poll results are not representative of all women who drive.

PREFERENCES

For example, the "All-American Moms" revealed a high preference for station wagons (19) and standard-size cars (29) over intermediates and compacts. Also reflecting married/family status were the number reporting multiple cars and licensed drivers in their households. Most were two-car, two-driver families, with one reporting seven drivers in the family.

Typically, almost all gave weight to exterior colors, and to textures and hues in car upholstery, but not to brand names.

The ladies did not see the car as a status symbol. One Black woman, whose husband is completing work on his doctoral dissertation, said: "I think it used to be true that many Blacks felt they needed a flashy car to feel important, but now that we are getting the chance to feel important in other ways, a car becomes more of a way to get around."

But on the status symbol topic, one woman confessed "deep down in my heart it isn't, but with my husband in politics, we sort of feel pressured to own at least one up-to-date car."

The ladies strongly favor power brakes and power steering, and most included air conditioning among essential equipment.

PROTECTORS

The "moms" showed a concern for features protecting children passengers and made suggestions such as "vertical seat belts to insure a sleeping (reclining) child comfort as well as safety," "middle sun visor to prevent children from bumping drivers while avoiding sun glare" and "removable interior rear door handles."

Some imaginative projections included "automatic dimming of headlights when approaching another car" and "an automatic sensing device to warn drivers of approaching emergencies."

Black Americana Is Theme Of New Book

Rare photographs depicting Blacks in frontier days -- 265 of them -- illustrate "The Black West" a documentary and pictorial history by William Loren Katz, published recently by Doubleday.

Through excerpts from 19th century journals, personal diaries, government papers and eyewitness accounts, the author traces the role of the Afro-American in the West from the earliest explorations in the 1600s through the Lewis and Clark and Fremont expeditions and the settlement of western towns by ex-slaves.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Hi there, follow Peninsulans:

It is really wonderful when one reads about our Seaside youngsters who have gone away to college to make a name for themselves and to take an active part in the society we live in. One such person is Elaine Russell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred K. Russell of Seaside. Elaine has been chosen by the production manager of the Theatrical Arts Department at Chapman College to play a leading role in one of their forthcoming Major drama productions. Elaine was a 1971 Debutant and was presented by the Monterey Cotillion League at the Cotillion ball in February, 1971. She was voted "Miss Congeniality" by her sister debs that year and this lends a great emphasis on the charming personality of this talented and academically motivated young lady. The Cotillion League is very proud to have had her as one of their lovely debs of '71. I personally feel that in a few short years we will see Elaine Russell's name in lights. Right on to you, Elaine.

Other talented Seaside youths have made wonderful names for themselves. Herman Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Edwards of Seaside, and Charles Smith, the son of Mrs. Mary Jo Austin of Seaside and the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith of Seaside, have been accepted at U.C. Berkeley on full atheltic scholarships. Herman and Charles have been two of Monterey High's leading scorers on the football fields, as well as on the basketball courts. I also predict that these two young men will be going places and making the big time in a few years. They will be sadly missed by all of us sports fans of MHS. I wonder will we still be able to chant the victory song, "Nah Nah Nah, Yea Yea, were number one," at the exciting football and basketball games that MHS usually plays (smile).

Many students at King Junior High have expressed an interest in forming a tennis team, a handball team and a weightlifting team. Bill Martin did some homework and got a tennis team together, which now meets every Monday, Tuesday and Friday afternoons. By the way, any and all help is needed to whip the team into shape. In this vein Young Adults For Action through the efforts of Beth Rosales and George Solomon, have contributed a considerable number of tennis rackets to the team for the benefit of those students who cannot get the cash together to buy a $13 racket.

YAFA is also working closely with King teachers to secure equipment for the handball and weight-lifting teams. YAFA has sponsored a weight-lifting club at King in the past, but it was discontinued due to an over-enrollment (eighty students for one hundred pounds of weights). YAFA is doing valuable work in other areas of community action; the opinion of this writer is that YAFA is the most effective community action organization on the peninsula.

An interesting side is that both the Naval Postgraduate School and Fort Ord have been contacted to request the use of gymnasium and handball facilities during off-hours; these requests were flatly and unquestionably denied. Now what do you think about our Naval Post Graduate School and Ft. Ord neighbors? Wouldn't you say that they were being quite unneighborly????

Meanwhile speaking of YAFA, I personally know that they are performing a beautiful service to the community. There are a vast number of YAFA tutors and volunteer helpers who are constantly giving their services to students on King's campus daily. It was also quite interesting reading Lee Toler's letter to the editor in last week's paper. I've wondered myself how our city officials have allowed a topless and bottomless club to operate in the city of Seaside, when Dave Wintergarten's restuarant, which didn't compare in any respect to the degrading events that occur at this topless club, was forced to close his business by our city officials. Perhaps now you Seaside citizens can see with your own eyes: "when you are white you're right and when you are black step back."

Beautiful sight to behold: There is a black security guard who is working as a gate guard at Pebble Beach, Carmel Gate. Wouldn't you say its time they let us work in a different capacity at Pebble Beach besides cooks, maids, and gardners????

Fifteen Years of Jazz At Monterey Jazz Festival

Friday evening, September 15, the curtain will open on Monterey's fifteenth annual jazz Festival. This seasoned event, scheduled for the weekend of September 15, 16, 17, will again feature a variety of major jazz artists in five concerts.

Jimmy Lyons, founder and general manager of the Festival, says, "Since we started in 1958, there have been many casualties among the ranks of music festivals. We take great pride in reaching our fifteenth consecutive year of presenting fine jazz music."

"I think our audiences deserve much of the credit for the Festival's success," he said. "They come with a spirit of great enthusiasm for the music and respect for each other. This results in the relaxed, festive atmosphere that is so much a part of what the Monterey Jazz Festival is."

"Members of the Festival board of directors and I have great faith in the future of jazz. We hope to be presenting the Monterey Jazz Festival for many more years." Lyons concluded.

A non-profit event which each year makes sizeable grants to support jazz studies and music scholarships (total amount of money given away exceeds $100,000), the Monterey Jazz Festival has featured almost every major jazz performer from this country and many from Europe and elsewhere. Artists for this year's Festival will be announced soon, according to Lyons.

Prices for this year's Festival will be raised slightly, due to the increased artists' fees and production costs. The price for the evening concerts will be raised one dollar, to $7.50, $6 and $5 and season tickets will cost three dollars more this year, $30.50, $26 and $21. The prices for the afternoon concerts remain the same; $5 and $4.

The Monterey Jazz Festival is held in the 7000-seat outdoor arena on the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

For information write Monterey Jazz Festival, P.O. Box JAZZ, Monterey, California 93940 or telephone 373-3366.

In the spring, a young man's fancy turns to car loans.

Romance runs better with wheels. So may we suggest you go to your dealer. Pick out your model. And ask for Bank of America car financing.

More dealers provide Bank of America financing than any other source of credit. Between them they handle just about every make and model imaginable. What's more, your dealer can handle all the paper work. So you buy and arrange financing in one place. His place.

If your dealer doesn't offer our financing you can apply for a loan at any Bank of America branch. We trim the red tape. Your money comes through without a ripple. And at low rates.

You couldn't pick a better time to buy. Interest rates haven't been so low since the Dodgers won the pennant.

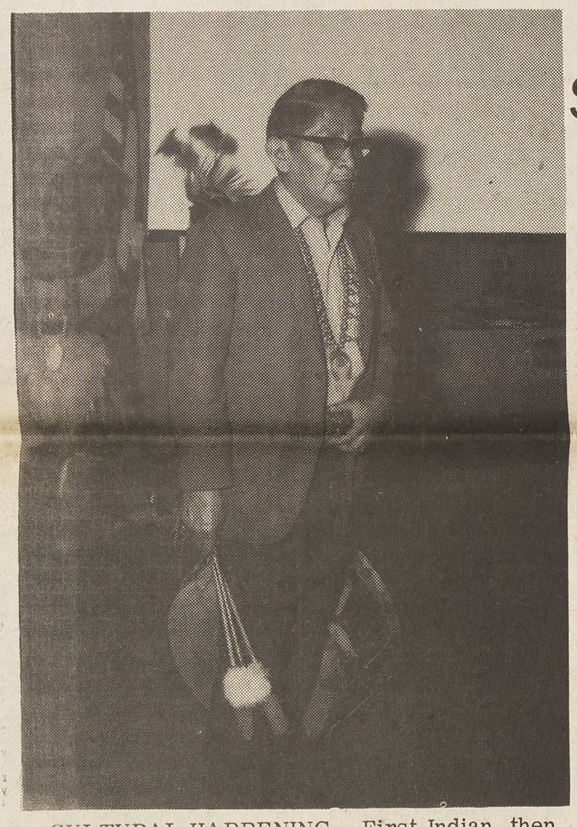
IN HIS MEMORY - Mike Rush, president of Seaside High's Black Student's Union, accepts $200 check from Arthur Dunn, trustee of Martin Luther King Fund of Unitarian Church of Monterey Peninsula. Dunn said trustees decided to make donation after hearing about high school drive to recover stolen and misplaced library books. Donation coincided with April 4 remembrance of assassination of Martin Luther King. Fund was created to do tangible things to improve race relations on Peninsula.



CULTURAL HAPPENING - First Indian, then soldier and now civilian employee of Ft. Ord, Rex Redhouse and Company took part in Monterey Library's recent Indian Culture Day. After film about untouched wilderness of old Indian Reservation in Sacramento Valley, Mr. Redhouse presented program of Indian dances to audience of children from Monterey grade school.

'Brian's Song' Wins Award

"Brian's Song," television's acclaimed "Movie of the Week" presentation, has won the Mass Media Brotherhood Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The award, in the form of a gold medallion, cited the film for "outstanding contributions to better human relations and the cause of brotherhood."

"Brian's Song," which aired last November, depicted the true story of the deep friendship between the Chicago Bears' outstanding Black halfback, Gale Sayers, and his white teammate, Brian Piccolo, who died of cancer in 1970 at the age of 26. Billy Dee Williams was cast as Sayers.

This is the second award won by "Brian's Song," which received national critical acclaim and has been established as one of the five highest-rated films in television history.

Most recently, the film was the recipient of an award from Black Sports Magazine for "interracial understanding through the medium of sports.'

In addition, "Brian's Song" has been cited in the Congressional Record as "one of the truly moving television and screen achievements in recent years." It has received both Golden Globe and Golden Reel nominations.

From $7,500 To $200,000

Baseball's highest-paid player, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, believes he would have been traded back early in his career if he had asked for the kind of money young players seem to expect. "I would never have had the nerve," he said.

The Braves' 38-year-old rightfielder-first baseman recently signed a three-year contract for a reported $200,000 a year.

Aaron joined the Braves in 1954 at the age of 20. His salary was $7,500. His goal when he came to the majors, he said, was "to save up enough money to buy a new Pontiac." He was married and had a baby daughter.

Bill Bartholomay, president of the Braves, describes Aaron as "the greatest player in the game today. His record speaks for itself."

That record really began in March, 1954, when Bobby Thomson broke a leg and Aaron took over in right field. He has had 639 home runs in 18 major league seasons, 75 less than Babe Ruth's 714. Willie Mays is second with 646.

Aaron expects to play only three more years and says, barring injury, he sees no reason why he should not be able to pass Ruth. He hit 47 homers last season although he missed about 20 games because of a bad right knee.

He has refused to have an operation, saying that at his age, he doesn't feel he should take the chance. "It feels fine now. I'm just going to go out there and play on it."

APPEAL

Did you wake up this morning thinking "I wish I could do something to help someone." Here is someone who needs your help. A young man who has paid his debt to society by putting in three (3) years in prison for a mistake he made. If you send a donation of any size no matter how small, we at Young Adults for Action can see that this young man gets a time cut on his sentence and be on his way home to his father at Bridgeport, Connecticut in May. He can only do this if his transportation is secured. The state cannot supply transportation. This is another instance of how Young Adults for Action functions to help individuals get back into the mainstream of American life.

Young Adults for Action's address for funds for this young man is: 445 Palm Avenue

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SEASIDE does ordain as follows:

Section 1. Pursuant to Ordinance No. 318 of the City of Seaside, a public hearing was called for April 6, 1972, at the hour of 8:00 p.m., in the City Hall, Seaside, California, to ascertain whether the public necessity, health, safety, or welfare requires the removal of poles and overhead wires and associated overhead structures and the underground installation of wires and facilities for supplying electric, communication, or similar or associated service within the North Fremont Underground District Phase I shown on the map, Exhibit "A", on file in the Office of the City Clerk, and described generally in words in Exhibit "B" attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference as fully as if set forth verbatim.

Section 3. Such hearing has been duly and regularly held, and all persons interested have been given an opportunity to be heard.

Section 4. The City Council of the City of Seaside does hereby find that the public necessity, health, safety, or welfare requires the removal of all poles and overhead wires and associated overhead structures and the underground installation of wires and facilities for supplying electric, communication or similar or associated service within the Gateway Redevelopment Project Area shown on the map, Exhibit "A", on file in the Office of the City Clerk, and described generally in words in Exhibit "B".
